Once granted a RAC, a member who applies for active membership within 90 days of the approval of the RAC, will have the full RAC fee, credited towards the active membership fee.

A person granted a RAC is entitled to act for up to one year from the date of approval and admission to the Law Society as a restricted member. Prior to the expiration of the one year period, an extension may be granted for a further one year period, upon the restricted member providing:

1. an updated Certificate of Standing from his/her home jurisdiction(s);
2. Insurance Exemption Certificate and proof of insurance;
3. Payment of the RAC renewal fee.

Approval of a RAC may take up to two weeks from the date that the Law Society receives a completed application. We recommend that the application be submitted well in advance of the date on which the Applicant wishes to appear in the Northwest Territories.

Applicants should be aware that the Rules of the Law Society of the Northwest Territories provide that:

55.(1) In determining whether an Applicant under rule 40,41, 49, 51, 52, 53 is of good character, the Executive is not bound by letters of character provided by the Applicant, but may make such inquiries and hold such hearings, as it deems necessary or desirable under the circumstances.

Persons providing letters of character should be prepared to be contacted with respect to their letter, if the need arises. Further, in the event the Executive receives information adverse to an Applicant's character, the Applicant will be informed of the information and given a reasonable opportunity to respond.

In the event the application is refused, section 19 of the Legal Profession Act provides that:

Where the Society refuses or neglects to admit a person as a member, that person may, on 10 days written notice to the Society, apply to the Supreme Court and, on due cause being shown, the Supreme Court may:

- (a) make an order directing the Society to admit the person; or
- (b) make such other order as is warranted.
